"The Government intends to make war on the insects, but we cannot do it through insecticides, because the weevijs burrow into the plants and close the passage behind them. In the winter they live under corn shucks and dead weeds in the fields. Our method will be to urge the planters to burn up all their crops in October. This will mean a big conflagration throughout Texas, but it is the only means possible. Planters will be induced to plant an early crop so that they may harvest it before October and then leave the fields to be overhauled."

After the lecture a reception was given at the school by Mr. and Mrs. Sidwell.
